Teachable Machin

I have two classes: the first class is the banana, and the second class is the apple. I trained the machine learning model until it recognized its input image and classed it as 100% banana in the figure below.

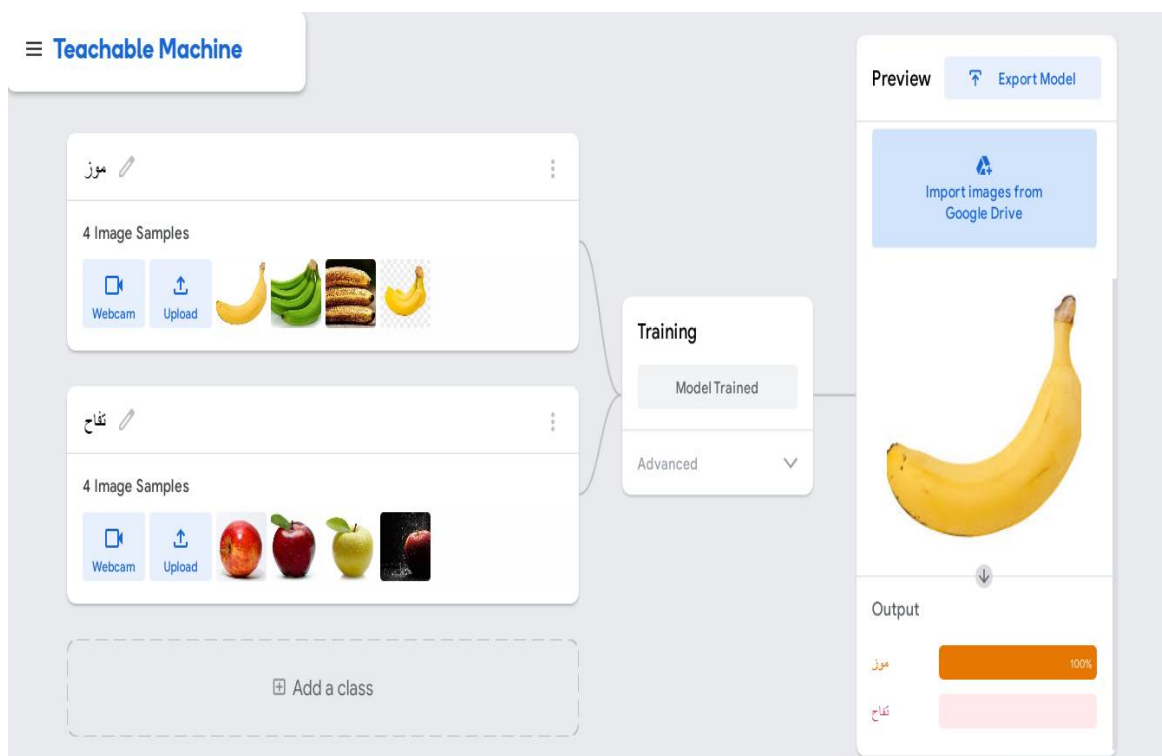

image model